DETAILED ACTION

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 9/22/03 has been entered.

Applicants' arguments, filed 9/22/03, have been fully considered but they are not deemed to be persuasive. Rejections and/or objections not reiterated from previous office actions are hereby withdrawn. The following rejections and/or objections are either reiterated or newly applied. They constitute the complete set presently being applied to the instant application.

VAGUENESS AND INDEFINITENESS

Claims 29-32, 37, and 38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 29 and 30 cite the phrase "said label probe" which lacks antecedent basis as no label probe is cited in either of claim 1, for example, from which they depend. Clarification via clearer claim wording is requested.

Claims 31 and 32 cite the phrase "said assay complex" which lacks antecedent basis as no assay complex is cited in claim 1, for example, from which they depend. Clarification via clearer claim wording is requested.

Claim 37, line 2, cites a capture probe but fails to clearly define whether this is the capture probe in claim 11 from which it depends or another capture probe.

Clarification via clearer claim wording is requested. This same unclarity is present in instant claim 38.

PRIOR ART

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 2, 11, 23-30, 34, 36, 37, and 39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e)(2) as being clearly anticipated by Kayyem et al. (P/N 6,090,933).

This rejection is maintained and reiterated from the previous office action, mailed 4/9/03, as well as applied to certain newly submitted claims. Applicants argue that the target nucleic acid in the Kayyem et al. citation lacks a covalently attached electron transfer moiety (ETM) as also diagrammed in the top diagram on page 10 of the REMARKS, filed 9/22/03. In response, the ETM in said top diagram of Kayyem et al. is covalently attached to a probe which is in turn hybridized to the target. Therefore there is a covalent attachment of the ETM. Consideration of the covalent attachment limitation in instant claims 1 and 23 reveals that there is no limitation as to what specifically the covalent bonding is directed to, or, whether the attachment is without any intermediate bonding such as hybridization or not. Therefore, instant claims 1 and 23 are reasonably interpreted as inclusive of the Kayyem et al. covalent attachment practice which is disclosed in a complex where hybridization also occurs. The presence of the hybridization between probe and target does not negate the presence of covalent attachment of the ETM to the assemblage within the scope of instant claims 1 and 23. Therefore, the above argument of applicants is non-persuasive. Applicants then argue that the Kayyem et al. compositions lack a recruitment linker which is not hybridized to the target. In response, the topmost diagram is again referred to on page 10 of applicants' REMARKS, filed 9/22/03. In this diagram a covalent linkage line is clearly seen between the ETM and the second probe. This illustrates what is reasonably a recruitment linker which is non-nucleic acid as instantly claimed. Specifically exemplified recruitment linkers link the ETM as shown in Figures 29A and 29B of Kayyem et al. as a triple bond carbon-carbon linkage to the ferrocene ETM moiety. Other recruitment linkers are shown in Figures 32B in Kayyem et al. Thus, this argument of applicants is also non-persuasive.

Newly submitted claims 29 and 36 are included as rejected above due to the presence of electron transfer moieties along the entirety of the probe/target complex which participate in electron transfer during target detection.

CLAIM OBJECTIONS

Claims 14, 33, 35, and 40-44 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

No claim is allowed.
